

The Geneva Graduate Institute Repository

Archiving our Scientific Heritage

What and how?

- Records all the works published by IHEID researchers.
- Makes the works available in open access when possible.
- Document types include articles, books, chapters, reports, theses, etc.
- Document versions: preprints/working papers, accepted manuscripts, published versions...
- Access settings can be public (open), restricted (IHEID-only), or private (closed).
- You may apply embargoes to respect publisher copyrights.
- Managed for you by the Librarians of the Institute.

Good for you

- Gives easy access to all your publications
- Ensures they will be durably preserved
- Increases the visibility of your works: contents are indexed in Google Scholar, Unpaywall, and Swisscovery
- Makes your publications open to respect your funders' Open Access mandates

Good for others

- Collects and preserves the Institute's intellectual and scientific heritage
- Increases the value of current research
- Contributes to the global Open Access movement and access to knowledge
- Allows sharing publications on the pages of departments and research centres

Key repository facts

- Over 16'000 records
- 2747 public (open access) documents
- 12'101 downloads
