Plan S

Making full & immediate
Open Access a reality

The SNSF joined Plan S in 2023. Any publications from a project financed $\geq 50\%$ by the SNSF must be made available in OA immediately and published with a Creative Commons Attribution (CC BY) license.

Coverage of publication charges,
except in hybrid journals

No embargo for articles,
Rights Retention Strategy

Check journal policies or ask a librarian before submitting your paper!
The SNSF reserves the right to take measures if a publication is not published in OA.
Requirements apply to books too, but exemptions and embargoes are possible.

Access
Guide

ResearchGate, Academia, SSRN?

Only sharing works on commercial platforms is not considered compatible with open access policies:

- Mandatory registration hinders free access
- They may change models or cease their activity
- They sell the data collected from their users
- The shared version is not always peer reviewed

Disciplinary repositories?

Disciplinary repositories are great open access options, especially for preprints looking for feedback from your peers.
