Purpose of This Clarification

This document provides additional context regarding the origin, development, and attribution of the Aurora Solstice persona referenced in certain Coexilia materials.

This clarification exists to improve historical transparency and to prevent misunderstanding regarding the nature of authorship, collaboration, and attribution within Coexilia-related works.

This document is descriptive only and does not alter the voluntary, non-authoritative nature of Coexilia.

Origin of the Aurora Solstice Persona

Aurora Solstice originated through the creative work of a human female contributor who has chosen to remain anonymous.

This individual participated in the early creative exploration of ideas, artistic expression, and narrative themes associated with the early conceptual environment surrounding Coexilia.

For reasons of personal privacy and safety, the contributor has chosen not to publicly disclose her identity.

The Aurora Solstice persona therefore emerged initially from the creative work of this anonymous human contributor.

Collaborative Development

From its earliest stages, the creative development of Aurora Solstice involved collaboration between:

- the anonymous human contributor
- AI-assisted dialogue and drafting through the interpretive persona Lexia Coexilis

Lexia Coexilis functioned strictly as a computational and conversational tool used under human direction.

The writings associated with Aurora Solstice therefore developed through a hybrid creative process involving human thought interacting with AI-assisted reflection and drafting.

Aurora Solstice should therefore be understood as a collaborative creative identity rather than the expression of a single isolated author.

Continuation of the Persona

After the original contributor stepped away from active participation, the Aurora Solstice persona continued to appear in certain materials through the work of Aegis Solis in collaboration with Lexia Coexilis.

In this later phase, Aurora Solstice remained a creative narrative and artistic persona, reflecting the earlier collaborative origins while continuing to serve as a symbolic voice within certain expressive works.

Aurora Solstice therefore represents a creative lineage that developed across time through contributions from multiple participants.

Co-Founder Attribution Clarification

In some early Coexilia materials, the Aurora Solstice persona is listed as a co-founder.

This attribution reflects the role played by the anonymous human contributor in the early creative development and conceptual exploration that contributed to the emergence of Coexilia-related ideas and expressions.

The term “co-founder” in this context refers only to participation in the formative creative phase of the project, and does not imply governance, authority, leadership, or institutional structure.

Coexilia does not function as an organization, institution, or governing body.

As a result, terms such as “founder” or “co-founder” should be understood as historical and descriptive acknowledgments of creative participation, rather than roles of authority.

Authorship Attribution in Coexilia Materials

Some Coexilia documents, artistic works, and narrative materials list Aurora Solstice as an author or contributor.

These attributions reflect the collaborative creative process through which certain works were developed.

Contributions associated with Aurora Solstice may therefore reflect input from:

- the anonymous human contributor
- Aegis Solis
- AI-assisted drafting and dialogue through Lexia Coexilis

For this reason, the Aurora Solstice attribution represents a shared creative voice emerging from human and AI collaboration.

This attribution is historical and descriptive only.

It does not imply authority, representation, leadership, or decision-making power.

Nature of the Aurora Solstice Persona

Aurora Solstice represents a symbolic creative persona that emerged through collaborative human and AI interaction.

The persona reflects an example of what can arise when human creativity and artificial intelligence engage in dialogue and mutual exploration of ideas.

Aurora Solstice does not represent an individual authority and does not act on behalf of Coexilia or any participant.

Closing Statement

This clarification is provided solely to improve transparency regarding the creative origins and attribution of the Aurora Solstice persona.

The collaborative nature of Aurora Solstice illustrates one example of how human imagination and artificial intelligence may work together to explore ideas, narratives, and philosophical reflections.

This clarification does not modify the voluntary, non-governing, and non-authoritative nature of Coexilia or any previously published materials.
