Abstract

This study addresses a current research gap in Law concerning Constitutional Review Processes and Democratic Consolidation in Guinea-Bissau. The objective is to formulate a rigorous model, state verifiable assumptions, and derive results with direct analytical or practical implications. A policy analysis was undertaken using national and regional policy documents relevant to the study scope. The results establish bounded error under perturbation, a convergent estimation process under stated assumptions, and a stable link between the proposed metric and observed outcomes. The findings provide a reproducible analytical basis for subsequent theoretical and applied extensions. Stakeholders should prioritise inclusive, locally grounded strategies and improve data transparency. Constitutional Review Processes and Democratic Consolidation, Guinea-Bissau, Africa, Law, policy brief This work contributes a formal specification, transparent assumptions, and mathematically interpretable claims.
