

Is haemolytic uraemic syndrome possible without thrombocytopenia?

Although haemolytic uraemic syndrome is classically associated with thrombocytopenia, atypical presentations can occur where thrombocytopenia is missing, particularly in cases with complement system involvement.

This summary presents the clinical bottom line. Click here to read the full evidence-based answer on AskTrip, including detailed rationale and references