

What is the evidence that contrast for a CT scan causes acute renal injury?

The evidence suggests that contrast for a CT scan can cause acute renal injury, particularly in patients with pre-existing renal issues or other risk factors. The risk is generally low in stable patients.

This summary presents the clinical bottom line. Click here to read the full evidence-based answer on AskTrip, including detailed rationale and references