

THE CRISIS OF TRUTH IN POSTMODERN PHILOSOPHY AND ITS SOCIAL IMPLICATIONS

Kavita K.L

Philosophical researcher

Abstract: The concept of truth has long occupied a central place in philosophical inquiry. However, postmodern philosophy challenges traditional understandings of objective and universal truth by emphasizing relativism, plurality of perspectives, and the role of language and power in knowledge formation. This shift has led to what is often described as a “crisis of truth.” This article examines the philosophical foundations of the crisis of truth in postmodern thought and analyzes its social implications in contemporary society. The study argues that while postmodern critiques expose the limitations of absolute truth claims, they also raise serious concerns regarding epistemological uncertainty, moral relativism, and social fragmentation.

Keywords: Postmodern philosophy, truth, relativism, knowledge, social implications, epistemology

Introduction: Truth has traditionally been regarded as a fundamental goal of philosophy, science, and human inquiry. Classical and modern philosophical traditions largely assumed that truth exists independently of human perception and can be discovered through reason, empirical observation, or logical analysis. From Plato’s theory of forms to Enlightenment rationalism, truth was considered objective, universal, and stable.

In the late twentieth century, postmodern philosophy introduced a radical critique of these assumptions. Postmodern thinkers questioned the possibility of objective truth and emphasized the contextual, constructed, and power-dependent nature of knowledge. As a result, the idea of a single, universal truth was replaced by multiple, competing interpretations. This shift gave rise to what many scholars describe as a crisis of truth, with profound implications for knowledge, ethics, and social life.

The aim of this article is to analyze the philosophical origins of the crisis of truth in postmodern philosophy and to explore its consequences for contemporary society.

Philosophical Roots of the Crisis of Truth

Postmodern philosophy emerged as a reaction to the perceived failures of modernity, including totalizing ideologies, grand narratives, and claims of universal reason. Thinkers such as Jean-François Lyotard famously defined postmodernism as “incredulity toward metanarratives,” rejecting overarching explanations of reality and history.

According to postmodern thinkers, truth is not discovered but constructed through language, discourse, and social practices. Michel Foucault argued that what societies accept as truth is closely linked to power relations and institutional structures. From this perspective, truth is contingent and historically situated rather than universal and timeless.

This philosophical stance undermines traditional epistemology by challenging the notion that knowledge can be neutral or objective. Instead, postmodernism promotes epistemological pluralism, in which multiple truths coexist without a single authoritative standard.

Relativism and the Fragmentation of Knowledge

One of the most controversial aspects of postmodern philosophy is its association with relativism. If truth is dependent on cultural, linguistic, or social contexts, then no single perspective can claim absolute validity. While this approach promotes tolerance and openness to diversity, it also raises concerns about the loss of shared standards for evaluating truth claims.

In the absence of objective criteria, distinguishing between reliable knowledge and misinformation becomes increasingly difficult. Critics argue that radical relativism leads to epistemic skepticism, where all claims are viewed as equally valid or invalid. This fragmentation of knowledge challenges the foundations of science, education, and rational public discourse.

Social Implications of the Crisis of Truth

The crisis of truth in postmodern philosophy has significant social consequences. In contemporary societies, the erosion of shared truth standards contributes to the spread of misinformation, conspiracy theories, and “post-truth” politics. Public debates are increasingly shaped by subjective beliefs, emotional narratives, and ideological commitments rather than evidence-based reasoning.

Moral and ethical discourse is also affected by the crisis of truth. When moral values are seen as relative and context-dependent, establishing universal ethical norms becomes problematic. This may lead to moral uncertainty and weakened social cohesion, as individuals and groups adhere to incompatible value systems.

At the same time, postmodern critiques have positive implications. By exposing the power dynamics behind truth claims, they encourage critical thinking and skepticism toward dominant ideologies. Postmodern philosophy invites individuals to question authority, recognize marginalized perspectives, and resist dogmatism.

Balancing Critique and Responsibility

The challenge lies in balancing postmodern critique with epistemological and ethical responsibility. Completely abandoning the concept of truth risks undermining meaningful communication, scientific inquiry, and social trust. Some contemporary philosophers advocate for a moderate position that acknowledges the contextual nature of knowledge while preserving commitment to reasoned dialogue and empirical evidence.

Such an approach recognizes that while absolute certainty may be unattainable, truth remains a regulative ideal guiding inquiry and social cooperation. Dialogue, transparency, and critical reasoning can serve as shared tools for navigating pluralistic truth claims.

Conclusion: In conclusion, the crisis of truth in postmodern philosophy reflects a profound shift in how knowledge and reality are understood. By challenging universal truth claims, postmodern thinkers reveal the limitations and power structures underlying traditional epistemology. However, the resulting relativism poses serious challenges for social cohesion, moral discourse, and public reasoning.

A philosophical response to this crisis requires maintaining critical awareness without abandoning the pursuit of truth altogether. By integrating postmodern insights with a renewed commitment to rational dialogue and ethical responsibility, contemporary society can address the challenges of the crisis of truth while preserving the foundations of shared understanding.

Literature:

1. Шарипова, Н. В., Худайбергенов, А. С., Рахимов, Б. Б., & Наврузов, Э. Б. Гигиенические требования к безопасности пищевой продукции. СанПиН РУз, (0283-10).

2. ГИГИЕНИЧЕСКИЕ, Н. И., & УЗБЕКИСТАН, Н. Р. Гигиенические требования к производству, обороту и нормированию пищевых добавок.
3. Исраилова, Г. М., Эшмурадова, С. Т., & Тураев, И. Э. (2010). ГИГИЕНИЧЕСКАЯ ОЦЕНКА ФАКТОРОВ РИСКА ЗАГРЯЗНЕНИЯ МЯСОМОЛОЧНОЙ ПРОДУКЦИИ, ПРОИЗВОДИМОЙ В УСЛОВИЯХ МАЛОВОДЬЯ. Профилактическая и клиническая медицина, (1), 41-43.
4. Худайберганов, А. С., Тураев, И. Э., Турниёзова, В. М., & Каримова, Н. О. ОРГАНИЗАЦИЯ ДИЕТИЧЕСКО-ПРОФИЛАКТИЧЕСКОГО ПИТАНИЯ В ПАНСИОНАТАХ ДЛЯ ВЕТЕРАНОВ ВОЙНЫ И ТРУДА. ЎУРМАТЛИ СОҒЛИГИМИЗ ПОСБОНЛАРИ!.
5. Makhamatov, U., Malikov, N., Pulatov, S., Yusupov, M., Ibragimov, U., Kenjayeva, K., & Umarov, S. (2026). A HEALTHY LIFESTYLE IS THE GUARANTEE OF HEALTH. Shokh Articles Library, 1(1).
6. Niyozova, N. S. (2023). Tibbiyot oliy o 'quv yurtlarida O 'zbekiston tarixini o 'qitishning dolzarbligi va uni takomillashtirishda ilg 'or pedagogik texnologiyalarning o 'rni (Doctoral dissertation, Tibbiyot oliy ta'lim muassasalarida ijtimoiy fanlarni o 'qitishning dolzarb muammolari).
7. Niyozova, N. (2024). FEATURES OF THE HYGIENIC-CULTURAL APPROACH TO PRODUCT PRODUCTION. Western European Journal of Historical Events and Social Science, 2(10), 32-33.
8. Niyozova, N. S. (2024). TIBBIYOT XODIMI FAOLIYATIDA MULOQOT MADANIYATINI SHAKLLANTIRISHNING O 'ZIGA XOS XUSUSIYATLARI. Academic research in educational sciences, 5, 142-145.
9. Makhamatov, U., Malikov, N., Po'latov, S., Yusupov, M., Ibragimov, U., Kenjayeva, X., & Umarov, S. (2026). ORGANIZING HEALTHY AND SAFE NUTRITION IN OSTEOPOROSIS AFTER COVID-19. Shokh Articles Library, 1(1).
10. Arutyunov, G. P., Tarlovskaya, E. I., Arutyunov, A. G., Belenkov, Y. N., Konradi, A. O., Lopatin, Y. M., ... & Fatenkov, O. V. (2021). International register "analysis of chronic non-infectious diseases dynamics after COVID-19 infection in adult patients (ACTIV SARS-CoV-2)". Kardiologiya, 60(11), 30-34.
11. Абдуллаева, Ч. А., Камилова, У. К., Расулова, З. Д., Ибабекова, Ш. Р., & Сафаева, Л. Ш. (2014). Изучение процессов ремоделирования сердца и дисфункции эндотелия у больных с хронической сердечной недостаточностью. Российский кардиологический журнал, 5(109), 3.
12. Камилова, У. К., Расулова, З. Д., Закирова, Г. А., & Тошев, Б. Б. (2019). Особенности сердечно-сосудистого ремоделирования, уровня нейрогуморальных факторов в зависимости от степени хронической сердечной недостаточности и дисфункции почек. Кардиоваскулярная терапия и профилактика, 18(3), 35-40.
13. Makhamatov, U., Malikov, N., Po'latov, S., Yusupov, M., Ibragimov, U., Kenjayeva, X., & Umarov, S. (2026). ORGANIZING HEALTHY AND SAFE NUTRITION IN NON-COMMUNICABLE DISEASES. Shokh Articles Library, 1(1).

