

500  $\mu\text{m}$

This scanning electron micrograph (SEM) shows a highly textured surface composed of numerous elongated, conical protrusions arranged in a regular, grid-like pattern. The protrusions have a rough, granular texture. A white scale bar is positioned horizontally in the middle-left area of the image, with the text '500 μm' placed above it.