Abstract:

The Scottish Crime Survey (SCS) is a repeat cross-sectional survey measuring the incidence and prevalence of victimisation among the Scottish population. The survey aims to provide an alternative measure of crime to the police recorded crime statistics, examine trends in the level and nature of crime over time, assess varying crime risks and collect information on a range of other crime-related issues, e.g. concern about crime; attitudes to the police; drug misuse and domestic violence.

Crime surveys have been carried out in Scotland since the early 1980s. In 1982* and 1988* the Crime Survey in Scotland formed part of the British Crime Survey (BCS). In 1993, however, the first independent SCS was run in Scotland and was repeated in 1996 and 2000.

*The Scottish data from the 1982 and 1988 BCS are held separately under SNs 4368 and 4599, as they have different access conditions to the main BCS. The Scottish part of the 1988 BCS was also known as the Scottish Areas Crime Survey.
