

Figure 4. Litter size gene transcription factor network in pig. Transcription factors (yellow nodes) associated with candidate genes (light pink circle nodes) for the litter size. Red diamond nodes represent the biological processes associated with transcription factors. The size of the nodes represents the enrichment as a function of the number of transcription factor binding sites.