

Some women seek out surgical treatments for unwanted body parts, but many opt for non-surgical cosmetic enhancements instead. These include injections and laser treatments, which can modify the appearance of the lips. Women who want fuller, more youthful looking lips turn to lip fillers to achieve this result. Some women have natural full lips, so they choose the lip filler treatment to create a natural look. Others seek dramatic results that are more dramatic than naturally full lips.

Professional lip fillers come in many different formulations and can last for months or even years in some cases. These include hyaluronic acid, glycerin, collagen and silicone.
