

"Every book tells a story, but what can thousands of books tell you?"

The Koninklijke Bibliotheek, National Library of the Netherlands (KB)

A significant amount of content is made available in bulk for research purposes. We can also offer (technical) support through the KB Research Lab or help you get access to specific tools. Datasets, consisting of digital texts, images and metadata, can be accessed through <http://kb.nl/en/data-services-apis>

Examples of datasets that can be made available:

Medieval Illuminated Manuscripts

manuscripts.kb.nl

11,000 images from 400 medieval manuscripts

Historical Newspapers

kranten.kb.nl

8.5 million newspaper pages from the Netherlands and its former colonies, 1618–1995

Early Dutch Books Online

www.earlydutchbooksonline.nl

10,000 books from the Dutch-speaking region, 1781–1800

Staten-Generaal Digitaal

www.statengeneraaldigitaal.nl

450,000 Dutch parliamentary proceedings, 1814–1995

Plus more than 3 million pages of radio bulletins, journals, books, images, watermarks, etc.

We would love to hear how we can improve. Leave us some tips via the questionnaire at <http://tinyurl.com/KBandDH> or scan the QR code and get access to a full list of our sets and a sample of KB data!

The British Library

The British Library Digital Scholarship team seeks to encourage scholars and developers to do research and development with digital data. Details of datasets that could be made available can be accessed through labs.bl.uk/Digital+Collections

Examples of datasets that can be made available:

19th Century Books

<http://goo.gl/FLWdL>

68,000 digitised volumes, around 23 million pages, covering a wide range of subject areas including philosophy, history, poetry and literature, 1789–1900

Bibliographic data

<http://goo.gl/n94Sb>

2.8 million records from the British National Bibliography, since 1950

Digitised Manuscripts

<http://goo.gl/Bi0qy>

Over 250,000 images from 1000 manuscripts, from 9th to 19th Centuries

Plus many more image, map, sound recording, journal and manuscript digital objects. Speak to us about what is available or scan the QR code to get further information and to learn about our BL Labs project which is generating transformative research ideas that create new narratives from our digital collections.

We have a team of Digital Curators who explore how digital technologies are shaping the research process in the 21st century and how this informs our future library service provision. Follow #BLDigital on twitter, subscribe to the blog or email us to learn more, see contact details below.
