A raccoon is depicted standing on its hind legs on a weathered concrete wall. It is wearing a red bandana with a black paisley pattern over its eyes and holding a red marker in its right paw. To the left of the raccoon, there is a large red graffiti symbol that resembles a stylized 'A' or a target. The raccoon has black fur with white patches on its chest and back. The background is a textured, grey concrete wall with some small holes and debris.

A photograph showing a paved road that is blocked by a large pile of dark, irregularly shaped rocks. In the background, there is a steep, eroded hillside made of light-colored soil and some sparse green vegetation. To the left of the road, there is a small, light blue container or shed, and further back, some buildings and trees are visible under a cloudy sky. The overall scene suggests a state of neglect or a lack of maintenance.
