

Oberlin, and Romilly and the work of these for various classes of the helpless and oppressed. Two chapters deal with the temperance crusade and more particularly of the work of Father Mathew. Then we have chapters on the reforms of Lord Shaftesbury, General Gordon, Sir George Williams, Quintin Hogg, Dr. Grenfell, and Dr. Barnado. It is a charming and highly useful work and places within easy reach of all the records of these important reforms. There is something of the one-sidedness of the crusade in the accounts, but on the whole the accounts are trustworthy and the work well done.

W. O. CARVER.

Missionary Heroes in Asia. True Stories of the Intrepid Bravery and Stirring Adventures of Missionaries with Uncivilized Man, Wild Beasts and the Forces of Nature. By John C. Lambert, M.A., D.D., Author of "The Omnipotent Cross", "Three Fishing Boats", etc., etc. With Ten Illustrations, Philadelphia, J. B. Lippincott Company; London, Seeley & Company. 1908. Pp. 158.

These stories are well told and are made up from the biographies of prominent missionaries. The subjects of the six chapters are James Gilmore of Mongolia, Jacob Chamberlain of India, Joseph Hardy Neesima of Japan, George Leslie Mackay of Formosa, Miss Annie R. Taylor of China and Thibet, and Dr. A. Macdonald Westwater of Manchuria. The narratives are well written and will give entertainment, instruction and will awaken missionary enthusiasm. They are well adapted for children and young people but not wanting in fitness for all ages and classes.

W. O. CARVER.

Stewardship and Missions. By Charles A. Cook, Author of Systematic Giving, Stewardship, the Holy Spirit in Church Finances, Helpful Portions for the Prayer Life. Published by the American Baptist Publication Society for the Baptist Forward Movement for Missionary Education. Pp. 170.

Mr. Cook has for years devoted his time with intelligent enthusiasm to the inculcation of the principle of stewardship.

His booklet on that subject had a wide reading and deserves to be permanently studied. In the present volume the general principles of stewardship are applied to the specific field of Missions. No effort is made to avoid the matter of the work entitled Stewardship, but rather is it freely used. There are eight chapters with a series of questions at the close of each, while topic notes adorn the margins all along. Several full-page illustrations add attractiveness and pedagogical value. The book is full of life and is admirably adapted to the use of individuals, classes and ministers. The principles are illustrated with anecdote and quotation as well as enforced by Scripture quotation.

W. O. CARVER.

A Syllabus of Lectures on the Outlines of the History of Christian Missions. By William Owen Carver, M.A., Th.D. Baptist World Publishing Co., Louisville, Ky., 1909. Pp. 63.

For some years Professor Carver has used a syllabus on the principles and history of missions in his class in Comparative Religion and Missions. The part on the Biblical basis of missions he has now expanded and published under the title, "Missions in the Plan of the Ages." The other part Professor Carver has revised, somewhat enlarged and brought up to date and now offers to the public as a syllabus. It is the most satisfactory outline of the long and interesting story of Christian conquest with which I am acquainted. All who are interested in the subject will find this a most valuable guide.

W. J. MCGLOTHLIN.

Doctor Lee. By Marshall Broomhall, B.A. With preface by Walter B. Sloan, with Portrait. Morgan & Scott, London and China Inland Mission, London and Philadelphia. 61 pages. Price, 20 cents.

This is a beautifully bound little volume with art cover. It contains an interesting and suggestive account of a Chinese