

stating the doctrine of the atonement. But he has not shown us a new and better way, nor is his statement clearer than the old one. One thing he has done, however, and this was his main object—he has set forth in vivid light the supreme importance of the kingdom of God, and the solemn duty of Christians to live the atoning life in this sinful world. While there is nothing new in this, there is much that is inspiring. Old doctrines need to be re-taught in new, fresh and striking words. Professor Nash provokes thought and awakens new interest in divine truth. He impresses me as an earnest and a devout student.

I should prefer "The Atonement-Life," to the present title, "The Atoning Life."
J. P. GREENE.

Work and Habits.

By Albert J. Beveridge. Henry Altemus Co., Philadelphia, Penn., 1908. Price 50 cents. Pages 96.

Senator Beveridge has wholesome counsel here for boys. He talks about habits, money, fear of losing, character, etc. It will do good for men as well as boys to read these wholesome words.
A. T. ROBERTSON.

Good Citizenship.

By Grover Cleveland. Henry Altemus Co., Philadelphia. Price, 50 cents.

This little book came out about the Fourth of July and serves also as a memorial of Mr. Cleveland's ideals for the boys of the land. It is a wholesome book for boys and men who love their country. The death of the great ex-President adds pathetic interest to the volume.
A. T. ROBERTSON.

The Sunday-School Teacher's Pedagogy.

Edited by H. T. Musselman, Superintendent. American Baptist Publication Society, Philadelphia. Pp. 160.

This is the third in the series of "The National Teachers' Training Institute Text-Books." It is a patch-work, taken in part from works already in print and in part written for this publication by various Sunday school specialists. Some of the