XXXVI. Copy of a Roll of Purchases made for the Tournament of Windsor Park, in the sixth year of King Edward the first, preserved in the Record Office at the Tower. Communicated by Samuel Lysons, Esq. F.R.S. V.P. in a Letter to Nicholas Carlisle, Esq. Secretary.

Read 17th Feb. 1814.

DEAR SIR,

King's Bench Walks,
15th Feb. 1814.

I ENCLOSE the copy of a Roll, preserved in the Record Office at the Tower, containing an account of a great variety of articles provided for a Tournament, held in Windsor Park, in the month of July, the sixth year of the reign of King Edward the first. This tournament appears to have been one of those termed peaceable Justs, lately described in Mr. Douce's interesting paper, to which the contents of this Roll may serve as a supplement.

The Roll is written on two membranes, and contains two accounts, the first being of articles purchased by the hands of Adinett the taylor; and under the inspection of Albini and Robert de Dorset, entitled, "Emptiones facte per manum Adinetti Cissoris et visu Albini & Roberti de Dorset contra Torniammentum de Parco de Windsore, nono die Julii anno sexto." The second is an account of purchases made at Paris for the King and Queen, and their children, by the same Adinett.

In the account of the armour to be provided, appear the following names of the several knights, thirty-eight in number, twelve of whom are styled digniores. The Earl of Cornwall, with a companion; the Earl of Gloucester;^a the Earl of Warren; the Earl of Lincoln; Wil-

^a Three of these Knights, namely, the Earl of Gloucester, the Earl of Lincoln, and William de Valence, Earl of Pembroke, in conjunction with the King's eldest son, Prince Edward, and his brother Edmund Earl of Lancaster, appear to have had a few years afterwards the chief superintendence of Tournaments. For in the Statuta de Armis, sometimes intitled Staliam de Valence; the Lord Robert Tibetot, Roger de Clifford, Hugh Fitz-Otho, William de Monte Reuelli, Pagan, and Patricius de Cadurcis, — de Pontist, Giles de Fenes, Walter de la Hide, John de Wanlope, John de Britannia, Amadis de Sabaudia, with two companions, — Bonfillard, Gerard de St. Laurence, Walter Beek, Roger de Trumpington, Berth. de Breanzon, William de Gonevile, W. Ernaldi, W. de Hauteresham, Walter Garcelini, Walter de St. Martin, Rob. Johannis, G. de Picheford, Geoffry Gopil, Andrew de Rat, and Peter Picot. Several of these appear to have been foreigners. Of the English, the greater part were of high rank and distinguished for their martial exploits, and several of them nearly allied to the King. Edmund Earl of Cornwall was the King's cousin, son of his uncle Richard King of the Romans, and at this time must have been about thirty years of age, having received knighthood in the fifty-fifth year of Henry III. when he was of age. Gilbert de Clare, Earl of Glou-tutum armorum in Tornamentis, which must have been made about the year 1295; it is said, that if any earl, or baron, or other knight, should go against that statute, such knight, by assent of all the baronage, should lose horse and harness, and abide in prison at the pleasure of our Lord Sir Edward, the King's son, and Sir Edmund, the King's brother, Sir William de Valence, Sir Gilbert de Clare, and the Earl of Lincoln.

The late Mr. Daines Barrington, in his Observations on the more ancient Statutes, observes, that this statute "may very well merit the attention of the herald or the reader of ancient romances, as there are a great many terms used in it, which relate to chivalry and armour." It will be found in the Statutes of the Realm lately published by order of his Majesty's Commissioners on the public Records, printed from a manuscript in the Bodleian library, with various readings from the printed copies. The date of it has been considered as wholly uncertain; yet it appears to me that it could not have been far distant from that which I have ventured to assign it, on the following grounds. The names mentioned in it of Edward the King's son and Edmund his brother, might have served for the reign of King Edward the third, and so might those of Gilbert de Clare, and the Earl of Lincoln; but William de Valence, the Earl of Pembroke, who died in 1296, was the last of his family of that name: and as the Earl of Gloucester died in 1295, and Edmund Crouchback, Earl of Lancaster, in 1296, the statute could not have been of a later date than 1295.

By the above mentioned statute it is provided that no knight or esquire, serving at the tournament, should bear a sword pointed, or dagger pointed, or staff, or mace, but only a broad sword for turneying: and all that bear banners should be armed with mufflers, and cuishes, and, shoulder-plates, and a scull-cap, without more.

cester, was one of the most powerful barons of his time, and a distinguished warrior, who a few years afterwards married Joan of Acre, the King's daughter. John Earl of Warren was nearly allied to the King, having married Alice, sister by the mother's side to King Henry the third, being her daughter by the Earl of March, her second husband. William de Valence (Earl of Pembroke) was the King's uncle, being the son of his grandmother, Queen Isabella, by her second husband.

Many of the Knights whose names appear on this roll had been with King Edward in the crusade. Pain de Chaworth (de Cadurcis) who possessed the barony of Kempsford in Gloucestershire, was signed with the cross in the fifty-fourth year of King Henry III. together with his brother Patric, whose name also appears on this roll, and accompanied Prince Edward to the Holy Land, as no doubt did Roger de Trumpington, who is represented as a crusader on his grave-stone in Trumpington church, Cambridgeshire. Robert de Tibetot was a faithful servant to King Edward the First for many years, and attended him in the Holy Land; he was much employed in military affairs till the time of his death, which happened in the twenty-sixth year of that King. It appears also by the Clause Roll 54, Henry III. that Roger de Clifford attended Prince Edward to the Holy Land. John de Britannia, no doubt, was the Earl of Richmond, and Duke of Britany, who had licence from the King to go to the Holy Land the following year.^b

Armour (Hernesium de armis) was provided for all the knights. It appears to have been of leather gilt; and various sums, from 7s. to 25s. were paid for making and gilding each suit, to the three persons employed, Cosmo the tailor, Salvag' the tailor, and Reymunde de Burdieus. At the end of this item of the account, there is a memorandum, stating that each suit of armour consisted of a tunic, a sur-

coat, a pair of ailettes,^c a crest, a shield, a helmet of leather, and a sword of balon.^d

The sum of three shillings was paid for the carriage of the armour from London.

The shields were of wood, and provided by Stephen the joiner at 5d. each. Peter the furbisher provided the thirty-eight swords, made of balon and parchment, at 7d. apiece, and was paid 25s. for silvering them, and 3s. 6d. for gilding the pomels and hilts with pure gold.

Ralph de la Hay received 12s. for gilding with pure gold twelve helmets for the knights of the highest rank; and for silvering the remainder, 17s. 4d. being after the rate of 8d. each.

Milo the currier furnished thirty-eight head-pieces of leather, resembling horses heads, at 2s. each; and thirty-eight pair of little wings of leather at 8d. the pair. Richard Paternoster provided eight hundred little bells, sixteen skins for making bridles, and half a horse's skin for cruppers, and twelve dozen silken cords for tying on the ailettes. Seventy-six calf skins were provided for making the crests.

The sum total of the articles provided in England, was fourscore pounds eleven shillings and eight pence.

The articles procured from Paris consisted chiefly of furs of various kinds, for the use of the royal family, the King's couch, the Queen's mantle, &c. amounting in the whole to 608l. 18s. 6d. of Paris. Canvass, fine linen, towells, &c. amounting to 130l. 18s. 6d. Saddles richly embroidered with gold and silver, eight of them with the arms of England, and others with those of the knights, and two for the King's mule, amounting to 280l. 14s. 2d. Among the minute articles are half a dozen pair of double gloves, which cost 35s. and the same quantity of buckskin gloves for the King, 60s. Two ivory combs for the King, 32s. 8d. Four green and three red carpets for the King's chamber, 28l. A velvet covering for the head of the King's bed, 100s. A cloth dyed in grain for the Lord Alphonso,^e 40l. Two tire-teyns mixt in grain, 78l. 15s.

For Robinet's expences with the King's robe from Paris to Glastonbury, with the hire of his horse, 20s.^f

The sum total of the expences at Paris was 1429l. 5s. of Paris, being 1781l. 7s. 9d. $\frac{1}{2}$ Tournois, and 447l. 12s. 5d. sterling.

The notes on this roll, which I inclose, signed J. B. were communicated to me by our late Secretary, Mr. Brand, a short time before his death.

I remain, dear Sir,

Your very obedient faithful Servant,

SAMUEL LYSONS.

TO NICHOLAS CARLISLE, Esq.
Secretary of the Society of Antiquaries.

^e Alphonso was the King's eldest son, who died soon afterwards.

^f We read in Stowe's Chronicle, A. D. 1278, sixth of Edward I. "In the month of April the King, the Queen, and the Archbishop of Canterbury, with their traines, took their journey toward Glastonbury, and there sojourned, where the King caused the tomb of Artour to be opened, whose bones he caused to be removed out of the said tomb, to behold the length and bignes of them, and then returned to London." p. 200.
