

The Trial of Jesus from a Lawyer's Standpoint. By Walter M. Chandler, of the New York Bar. Two volumes, pages 366, 406 respectively. Price $5.00. The Empire Publishing Co., New York City, 1908.

These sumptuous volumes (beautiful print and elegant binding) have a good deal of merit. The first volume is devoted to the Hebrew Trial, the second to the Roman Trial. One can have only praise for the author's industry and candor. He has on the whole made good use of his opportunity. One of the best things in the treatment is the full quotations from Jewish and Roman legal rules. In the first volume the author is not entirely at home in Jewish technicalities and trips occasionally. He is more in his element in the Roman trial. There are slips in printing also, and faults of style. But the legal points are sharply drawn and with force. The effect of the argument as a whole is good. One is glad to have this presentation of the matter. Other lawyers before Mr. Chandler have been attracted to the legal aspects of the trial of Jesus, as, for instance, Greenleaf and Innes. Mr. Chandler's work, while technical, is yet in popular style and not difficult to read and enjoy.

A. T. ROBERTSON.

The Resurrection of Jesus. By James Orr, M.A., D.D., Professor of Apologetics and Systematic Theology in the United Free Church College, Glasgow, Scotland. Cincinnati: Jennings & Graham, 1908. Pages 292. Price $1.50 net.

Dr. Orr first published these chapters in The Expositor, but they richly deserve publication in book form. Indeed, I am willing to say, glad to say, that it is the best modern treatise of this great subject. The books are many on the Resurrection of Jesus. It so happens that most of the recent books have taken the radical view of this matter and have inveighed against this supreme miracle. Dr. Orr has grappled at close quarters with the vital aspects of the problem. He is fully equipped, the equal in scholarship of any opponent of the reality of the Resurrection of Jesus. All sides of the matter