

The Bible for Home and School. Acts, the Second Volume of Luke's Work on the Beginnings of Christianity, with Interpretative Comment. By George Holley Gilbert, Ph.D., D.D. The Macmillan Co., New York, 1908. Price 75 cents.

The title sufficiently explains the scope of this little volume on Acts. The Revised Version of 1881 is the text used. All critical processes are omitted and only results are given. The series is edited by Dr. Shailer Matthews. Dr. Gilbert has written on Paul and on the apostolic history before and is entirely competent. He is less radical than some scholars and is suggestive always.

VII. SYSTEMATIC THEOLOGY.

Outlines of Systematic Theology Designed for the Use of Theological Students. By Augustus Hopkins Strong, President and Professor of Biblical Theology in Rochester Theological Seminary. American Baptist Publication Society. Price $1.50 net, post-paid.

This volume contains all given in the large print in the complete work in three volumes. It is, as the title intimates, an outline of Dr. Strong's system of theology. But it is also more than a mere outline of his views. It contains the outlines of his arguments to sustain them, and a statement, and an outline of his discussion, of conflicting views. The gist of the literature on each subject given in the unabridged work is all omitted, as is also the more minute discussion in which Dr. Strong comes to closer grips with those from whom he dissents, and in which the nicer shadings of his reasonings and conclusions may be seen. This outline, as stated, is for the use of theological students rather than for that of the general reader, and for rather advanced students at that. It is perhaps best fitted to be a basis of discussion in the class-room. Those who can do so will doubtless prefer to secure the unabridged work in three volumes. As this volume is but an outline of the larger work, no further review of it seems needful.
