we must refer a consideration of it to a future time, when we shall have made a few observations on electricity. In fine, the observing man will notice this effect of heat in almost every step he takes in life; whether he pursues and investigates nature as he finds her, or directs his abilities to imitating her in the arts.

ROYAL COLLEGE OF SURGEONS IN LONDON.

The following Manifesto has just issued from the above College, and, like every other production from the same quarter, is crammed with grammatical blunders.

Who hold the reins of government at the College we know not; but this we know, that they are taking the most decided steps to bring the whole of the practitioners of surgery into the utmost contempt. Here probably we are committing an error, for surgeons are rather bringing themselves into the most humiliating and contemptuous dilemma by quietly submitting to the iniquitous, imbecile and injurious laws enacted by such men as Sir Fretful FLIZARD, Cantwell CHEVALIER, and Mesdames FORSTER and LYNN.

As we shall have frequent opportunities of returning to the abuses and regulations of this establishment, we will merely state at the present time that we never beheld any resolutions more hostile to science or more decidedly avaricious than those we have printed in italics.

“The COURT of EXAMINERS, in pursuance of their duty to promote the cultivation of sound chirurgical knowledge, and to discountenance practices which have a contrary tendency, have Resolved:

That; from and after the date hereof:

The only Schools of Surgery recognized by the Court be, those of London, Dublin, Edinburgh, Glasgow, and Aberdeen:

That, Certificates of attendance upon the chirurgical Practice of an Hospital, be not received by the Court, unless such Hospital be in one of the above recognized Schools, and shall contain on an Average One Hundred Patients:

And, that Certificates of attendance at Lectures on Anatomy, Physiology, the Theory and Practice of Surgery, and of the Performance of Dissections, be not received by the Court, except from the appointed Professors of Anatomy and Surgery in the Universities of Dublin, Edinburgh, Glasgow, and Aberdeen; or from Persons teaching in a School acknowledged by the medical Establishment of one of the recognised Hospitals; or from persons being Physicians or Surgeons to any of those Hospitals.

Candidates for the Diploma, will be required to produce,

1. Of having been engaged six years, at least, in the acquisition of professional knowledge:

2. Of being twenty-two years of age.—And, according to the above Resolutions;

4. Of having performed dissections during two or more winter courses.

5. And of having diligently attended, during the term of, at least, one year, the chirurgical practice of an hospital:

Graduates in medicine of any of the Universities of the united kingdom; who shall have performed two, or more, courses of dissection, as above specified; and who shall have regularly attended, during the term of, at least, one year, the chirurgical practice of one of the above described hospitals.

The above rules are required to be observed by candidates to be examined for the testimonial of qualification of principal surgeon in any service.

Candidates for the Testimonial of Qualification of Assistant-Surgeon, in any service, must have attended six months, at least, the chirurgical practice of an Hospital, as above described; and two or more courses of anatomy; one course of surgery; and one of Dissections; as specified.

BY ORDER:

EDMUND BALFOUR,
Secretary.

19th day of March, 1824."

HOSPITAL REPORTS.

GUY'S HOSPITAL.

last number.*

The friends of this man would not consent to an examination of his body.

JAMES JUDE from page 81.

The post mortem inspection of this lad did not furnish any thing of a particular nature; it was evident that he had died from exhaustion;—the powers of the constitution had sunk to so low an ebb before the operation that they were unable to rally. The only internal disease found was a slight enlargement of the mesenteric glands. Brain, spine, liver, stomach, lungs, and heart, all healthy.

Jane Malvein, from page 81

At the conclusion of our report of this case in our last number, and which report was up to Thursday, April 15th, we stated that her bowels were free and that no unfavourable
