

JESUS CHRIST OUR LORD. An English Bibliography of Christology Comprising over Five Thousand Titles Annotated and Classified.

By Samuel Gardiner Ayres, B.D., Librarian of Drew Theological Seminary. A. C. Armstrong & Son, New York. 1906. Pages 502.

Mr. Ayres has done a useful piece of work, but it is not complete, nor can it be. He does not, for instance, mention Broadus' "Jesus of Nazareth". He mentions some American Tract Society's Series on the teachings of Jesus and omits others. There are no German nor French books listed, only English and American, except translations. A number of errors of reference are noted as was inevitable. The book has manifest limitations, and yet it will be found useful to any one who wishes to make researches in the life of Christ. Only he must remember that this list is not exhaustive even for works in the English tongue.

A. T. ROBERTSON.

JESUS CHRIST AND THE CIVILIZATION OF TO-DAY.

The Ethical Teaching of Jesus Considered in its Bearings on the Moral Foundations of Moral Culture.

By Joseph Alexander Leighton, Ph.D., Professor of Philosophy and Psychology in Hobart College. The Macmillan Co., New York and London. 1907. Price, $1.50. Pages 248.

Prof. Leighton's book is very readable, but it is far more. It is strong in thought and thoroughly modern in the right sense of the term, modern in sympathy and outlook. But he knows the mind of Christ on ethical matters and sets it forth in splendid contrast to the purely naturalistic hardness of mere biology. If nature is selfish, Christ is altruistic. Christianity is thus truly supernatural. The book has a grip on its subject and will get a grip on you if you read it. It is a fascinating theme and it is treated worthily, and that leaves little more to say. It is in truth a noble defence of the modern world's need of Jesus.

A. T. ROBERTSON.