By E. A. Fox, General Secretary Kentucky Sunday School Association. The Sunday School Times Co., Philadelphia. Price, 50 cents. Pages 111.

The Sunday schools of today are devoting more attention than formerly to securing a complete and accurate record of every phase of their work. To those officers and teachers who wish to examine a variety of the best methods of dealing with the problems of attendance and record we recommend a careful reading of the twelve chapters in this timely little volume.

Up Through Childhood.

By George Allen Hubbell, Ph. D., Vice-President of Berea College. G. P. Putnam's Sons, New York.

The contributions that Psychology is making to the art of mental discipline and character-building are becoming fully realized and disseminated. Dr. Hubbell has produced a readable volume in which he discusses "some principles of education in relation to Faith and Conduct". There is nothing especially striking in the views of the author nor in their expression, but the scope of topics is comprehensive and treatment smooth and helpful to those interested in the most vital elements of religious culture.

Part I deals with "The School of Life". Life is opportunity, the aim of education, and the institutions of education—the home, the school, the church and the Sunday school.

Part II treats of "The Teacher"—his work, his preparation, his text-book and his pupil.

In Part III "The Learner" is studied from the view-point of psychology—e. g., man's nature, environment, the senses, attention, apperception, interest, memory, imagination, motive, habit, will, etc.

Part IV consists of only one chapter—"The Graduate", or "The Rounded Life".

The book is worthy of a place in the teacher's library.
