A promise to a respondent or research participant that the information the respondent provides will not be disseminated in personally identifiable form without the permission of the respondent; that the fact that the respondent participated in the study will not be disclosed; and that any disseminated information will include no linkages to the identity of the respondent. Such a promise encompasses traditional notions of both confidentiality and anonymity. Names and other identifying information regarding respondents, proxies, or other persons on whom the respondent or proxy provides information, are presumed to be confidential.

A respondent is generally a survey respondent or informant, experimental or observational subject, focus group participant, or any other person providing information to a study or on whose behalf a proxy provides information.
