

troubles prevailing in this section. In my practice it is now the remedy for Headache and Neuralgia, some cases yielding to it which had heretofore resisted everything else except morphine. I usually begin with a ten-grain dose, and then give five grains every fifteen minutes until relief is obtained. A refreshing sleep is often produced. There seem to be no disagreeable after-effects."

"Substitution." LEBANON, PA., Aug. 30, 1893.
MESSRS. WM. R. WARNER & CO., Philadelphia.

GENTLEMEN:—Some time ago I ordered Ingluvin through another house, knowing that your goods are widely distributed throughout the country, and apprehending no difficulty in procuring the genuine preparation. When your representative called upon me, I informed him that I had been disappointed in securing the very satisfactory therapeutic results previously obtained in the administration of this remedy; and when I stated that I had been supplied with a preparation in bulk, was told it was put up only in one ounce bottles, and not in bulk, and that a substitution had been practiced upon me. This fully explained why I had failed to get the results anticipated, and such as I had always succeeded in obtaining. Thus, it seems, you are much interested, because my patient was not relieved, my anticipations not realized, and during the interim, I discontinued to prescribe Ingluvin.

This condition of affairs is likely to become prevalent, unless checked, and it is calling it an easy name to say that it is a crime against the doctor, patient, and the manufacturer.

Substitutions of medicines should be suppressed, and doctors should be observant and careful to specify, so as to insure the dispensing of the genuine article.
