

THE LANGUAGE OF THE CLEOPATRA MS. OF THE ANCREN RIWLE.

§ 1. The Cleopatra Ms. (Cleopatra C. VI) is included, with the Ms. (Nero A. XIV) from which Morton's text is taken, in the Cottonian Collection of the British Museum. My first intention was to collate Morton's text with the original but, finding a pupil of Prof. Napier already far advanced in that work, I turned my attention to the language of Cleopatra. Since my time was limited, it was a choice between a thorough investigation of part of the Ms., or a hasty examination of the whole. I have chosen the former alternative.

The following examples are intended to show that the Cleopatra Ms. differs in dialect from Nero, and that where it differs it coincides in a marked degree with the language of the Katherine Group.

§ 2. OE. æ (Merc. Kent. e). The normal representative of this sound in the Katherine Group (K. G.) is e, with occasional ea spellings (cp. Stodte, Katherine-Gruppe, Gött. 1896 § 3); after w, e or ea preserved (cp. Morsbach me. Gr. §§ 100, 101).

Cleopatra and Nero have alike normally e: efter<sup>1)</sup> 62, 26; 56, 12; 14, 1 etc.; hefde 66, 4; 8, 21; hefdest 38, 20; pet 28, 6; ed 18, 23; 18, 27; 18, 26 (Nero et in each case); etfleo 50, 19; feste 34, 12 (Nero ueste); ifestned 62, 24 (N. ivestned); hweder 70, 12 (cp. Morsbach as above § 100).

In their treatment of the sound after w Cleopatra and Nero differ, and Cleop. agrees with K. G. Thus Cleop. has generally e after w: wes 58, 3 and always; hwet 12, 9 and in the great majority of instances; but hwat 72, 26 and in a few instances. Water occurs in my material once P. 72, 18 also warre 66, 23 (OE. wær) but both of these are found also in K. G. (cp. Stodte P. 14, 3).

Nero has a in all these instances.

§ 3. O.E. ā. The normal symbol in K. G. is a, occasional o and oa spellings (cp. Stodte § 9).

Cleop. has a in nearly every case, o rarely. Ex.: gað 44, 14; forgan 8, 1; gan 12, 20; stan 56, 7; grindstanes 70, 15; fa 62, 5; wacnesse 66, 6; wac 12, 19; swa 56, 15; 26, 21; gast 28, 3; mare 54, 7; 54, 10; ma 42, 16; 62, 5; 30, 7; hali 22, 8; 26, 17; 26, 10; 12, 16 etc.: are 32, 8; 26, 18; bihaten 8, 20; 28, 8; ihaten 62, 19; wat 62, 25; 54, 7; brade 54, 15; ladlukest 66, 22; saule 14, 5; 26, 20; 38, 10; 50, 19; lauerd 28, 19; 30, 18; 28, 8; 32, 7; 30, 2; 44, 22; 56, 18; 58, 18; 62, 21; 62, 15; 66, 26; claðes 12, 6; 14, 22; hwase 60, 25; 42, 19; 42, 25; 46, 12 etc.; twa 70, 15; hal 38, 14; gastliche 38, 28; 40, 9; 14, 12; ba 18, 21; 54, 10; baðe 46, 9; lare 28, 23; naut 6, 26; 12, 12; 12, 3; 46, 11 etc.; an 56, 6; 22, 19; 16, 7; anan 22, 7; 42, 20; ane 12, 11; annesse 12, 7; 12, 6; 12, 6; anlicnesse 18, 15; nane 70, 20; nan 26, 8; 70, 22; 68, 16; 68, 4.

Nero has o in all these instances except in 54, 15 where the spelling is broid.

In a few cases Cleo. has o: louerd 12, 20; forhoten 8, 5.

§ 4. O.E. ǣ (e). a) W. S. Angl ǣ (Gmc. ai-i). K. G. has e and ea spellings, both frequent (cp. Stodte § 10, a).

Cleo. has also e and ea, the latter predominating (once eo), while Nero has e in the majority of instances, ea rarely.

Examples (I) Cleop. e or ee: eni 8, 15; euer 52, 12; 12, 9; lees 30, 7; 42, 16; lesse 56, 21; punwreste 68, 9; imene 12, 8; techen 50, 15; hwete 70, 13; 70, 14; hestes 28, 17; 8, 9; flesliche 38, 10; flesch 38, 5; 6, 9; flech 38, 8; flesc 8, 1; clense 38, 9; mest 30, 6; 34, 14; fleschliche 58, 22; heste 58, 20; 6, 21; 6, 1; 6, 25.

Nero has e in all corresponding instances: eni, euer, les etc.

(II) Cleo. ea: neauer 6, 22; 60, 8; 70, 17; 56, 21; 44, 7; 38, 8; 38, 1; cauer 6, 2; 6, 3; 4, 16; 2, 13; 16, 10; 20, 4 etc.; eaue 68, 18; leafde 70, 13; leaue 38, 2; ear 10, 15; 12, 2; 72, 4; 36, 11; 36, 10; 20, 10; 20, 18; earest 10, 20; 60, 19; 14, 3; 64, 15; 14, 26 etc.; eareste 22, 21; 8, 19; 18, 11; areared 72, 5; learen 14, 25; leasted 20, 25; leasten 20, 20; lead 40, 1; heale 38, 14; heal (imp.) 38, 15; dealen 38, 24; ich deale 28, 4; canes 70, 1; teache 66, 20; cleane 38, 13; todeale 12, 26; ileared 64, 23; learen 64, 25; leareð 64, 25.

Nero e: neuer, euer, lefde etc., e in all above instances.

(III) Cleo. e, Nero ea: C. hele sb., N. heale 70, 18; C. lesse, N. leasse 6, 14; C. clene. N. cleane 4, 21; 10, 2.

(IV) Cleo. eo, N. e: C. leoste, N. lest 50, 19.

b) WS. æ, Angl. Kt. e (WGmc. ā and ai). K. G. e usual spelling, ea rare, eo twice (cp. Stodte § 10, b).

Nero and Cleo. employ e generally, each has ea in a few rare instances, Nero uses eo occasionally.

Here Nero and Cleo. agree with each other and with K. G. There is no evidence to show that WS. æ was the original sound; in Cleo. at least where WS., Angl. æ is so frequently written ea, we should expect frequent ea spellings here also, if the original sound had been 'wide'.

The examples are as follows: Cleo. leten 8, 4; offered 8, 16; per 12, 20; 12, 21; 12, 20; 14, 22; 14, 23; 18, 22; 26, 8; 30, 7; 32, 8; 44, 15; 60, 20; dede 38, 16; ich drede 38, 15; euensong 22, 7; 70, 8 etc.; slepe ich 28, 5; unimete 40, 13; leteð 42, 30; redunge 44, 4; mel 44, 15; 20, 26; sumdel 20, 8; 18, 20; seli 60, 25; 68, 14; 68, 10; neddre 66, 4; to lede 72, 11; letunge 14, 23; greige 12, 4; anrednesse 12, 5; slepen 46, 11; dede 62, 26; dred (Imp.) 58, 23; zer 70, 5; 54, 10; weren 72, 12 etc.; were 70, 12; 38, 9; 14, 10; ired 66, 5; red 66, 20; reden 44, 8; wepnes 60, 15; wepmone 58, 6; wepnen 60, 16; dred sb. 12, 19; 54, 13.

Nero has e in all corresponding examples. As regards the spelling ea, Cleo. has pear 34, 17; 78, 2, Nero per, both have ea in read 6, 20, Nero has read 6, 16 where Cleo. has e. Cleo. has no instance of the eo spelling but Nero has weopmen 56, 24; 10, 22; 70, 24.

§ 5. WS. ea + h, h + cons. K. G. generally a (cp. Stodte § 20).

Cleo. shows the Mercian development in: achtuðe 14, 19 (Nero eihtuðe); achte 12, 26 (Nero eihte); machte subs. 58, 10 (Nero muhte); machten 62, 16 (Nero muhten); machte pret. 70, 12 (Nero muhte); monslacht 56, 17 (Nero monsleicht); machte subs. 76, 20 (Nero mihte).

In one example the i-mutated Saxon form occurs, michte 76, 27, but this is found also in K. G. (cp. Stodte § 21).

§ 6. Angl., Kt. a-umlaut of ē. K. G. has frequent eo forms, e also occurs.

Cleo. agrees here with K. G. and differs considerably from Nero.

Cleo. to eoten 54, 3 (Nero to etene); C. ȝe eoteð 20, 26 (N. ȝe eteð); C. beoreð Imp. 68, 17 (N. bereð); C. ha beoreð 104, 24 (N. bereð); C. ȝeouen Inf. 92, 17 (N. to ȝiuen); C. to ȝeoue 106, 20

(N. ȝiuen); C. beore<sup>1)</sup> opt. 90, 7 (N. bere); C. walde steoke 62, 15 (N. steken); C. bisteoken 62, 16 (N. bisteken); C. speoken inf. 48, 9; 2, 10 (N. speken); C. speoked<sup>1)</sup> 3rd sg. 96, 24 (N. speked); C. to speokene 74, 23; 98, 7 (N. to spekene); C. to speoke 74, 23 (N. speken); C. speoken 80, 17 (N. speken); C. forȝeouenesse 44, 23 (N. forgiuenesse); C. eoten Inf. 4, 7 (N. eten); C. beoren Inf. 4, 7 (N. beren); C. speoken Inf. 48, 9; 2, 10 (N. speken); C. forȝeoteð Imp. 34, 9 (N. uorȝiteð). — The instances in which Cleo. has e are: spekeð 3rd pl. pres. 14, 7; speken inf. 20, 22; bereð 2nd pl. 30, 7; to ȝeuen 68, 13 (N. ȝiuen); speken 98, 14.

§ 7. OE. u/o-umlaut of e. This is found in all OE. dialects before liquids and labials; the spelling eo is therefore usual both in Nero and Cleopatra. Ex. seouene 62, 6; heouene 38, 16 etc.

§ 8. OE. u- and aº-umlaut of i. Cleo. has eo spellings generally, i in some words, Nero i more frequently than eo.

Ex. C. neome 32, 7 (N. nime); C. neomeð 46, 23 (N. nime); C. neomed 46, 27 (N. nimeð); C. misneomeð 46, 27 (N. misnimeð); C. misneominge 46, 28 (N. misnimunge); C. neomeð Imp. 100, 27 (N. nimeð); C. unweote 8, 22 (N. unweote); C. ȝe cleopeð 12, 27 (N. ȝe clepieð); C. cleopeð 58, 11 (N. cleopeð); C. iclooped 8, 25 (N. cleopede); C. witeð Imp. (N. witeð); C. N. witene 72, 1; C. N. wike 70, 7; 70, 6.

§ 9. Palatal + e. K.G. has e throughout (cp. Stodte § 29).

Cleo. has always e, Nero shows traces of the WS. treatment. Examples: C. ȝeue 30, 18 (N. ȝiue); C. ȝef me 38, 16; 26, 4 (N. ȝif); C. ȝeue me 28, 7 (N. ȝif); C. marheȝeuuen 30, 18 (N. mør-ȝiuen); C. to ȝeuen 68, 13 (N. ȝiuen); C. ȝeucð 3rd sg. 60, 22; 52, 4 (N. ȝiueð).

For the conj. ‘if’ Cleo. has always ȝef, which is also the invariable form in the Katherine Group; Nero has always ȝif. In the spelling of ȝelden, forget, ȝet Nero resembles Cleo. and has always e.

§ 10. Palatal + o, u. K.G. has eo, o spellings but u remains unchanged (cp. Stodte § 28).

In this respect Cleo. differs from K.G. Ex. Cleo. ȝeung 56, 19; 6, 14 (N. ȝunge); C. ȝeunge 70, 27; 56, 7; 52, 3 (N. ȝunge); C. ingeong 52, 16 (N. inȝong).

§ 11. e + palatal g. As regards the treatment of e in seggen (OE. secgan) Cleo. agrees with K. G. and differs from Nero.

Ex. C. seggeð 18, 19; 44, 1; segeð 22, 12; segge 66, 3; seggeð 44, 24; 32, 9; 22, 7; seggen 24, 8; 8, 2; 70, 21; 20, 22 and frequent instances. — N. sigged, sigge, siggen etc. always i. — K. G. seggen, segen, segge, seggeð (cp. Stodte § 4a and Anm. 1).

§ 12. Syncope. K. G. § 38 Anm. "Sehr beliebt ist die Syncopierung des Vokals in pēr- (ae. pēr) als erstes Glied von Kompositionen (cf. Morsb. me. Gr. § 69). p̄rin (= perin), p̄ron (= peron), p̄refter, p̄of."

Such and similar instances are common in Cleo. Ex. peorðe 46, 37 (ter eorðe N.); p̄refter 8, 15 (N. berefter); puttre 4, 17 (N. be uttre); binre 4, 15 (N. be inre; boðer 96, 1 (N. be oðer); p̄rin 96, 7 (N. perinne); p̄ruppe 100, 2 (N. peruppe); peorðe 20, 8 (N. per eorðe).

§ 13. Certain Verbal Forms. (I) Infinitive in -in is used frequently in K. G. for verbs of various origin (cp. Stodte § 38, P. 58). So also Cleopatra: changin 6, 18; 10, 22; lokin 56, 7; lastin 64, 22; preisin 64, 22; totin 52, 102; helpin 10, 13; cnavin 92, 17; frofrin 94, 2; riwlin 4, 12. — Nero has en.

(II) OE. mæg, meahte etc. St. Katherine: opt. sg. mahe frequently, mahan pres. plur., mahte usual pret. rarely mihte (cf. St. Katherine ed. Einenkel, E. E. T. S.); St. Juliana: mahan, mahte, tu maht, ne mahe ge etc. (cp. St. Juliana ed. Cockayne, E. E. T. S.); see also Stodte §§ 20, 21. — Cleo.: ne magen 68, 12; he mage 44, 18; ze mage 70, 8; 26, 6; 44, 24; 44, 9; 44, 12; 44, 5; 16, 8; 62, 8; 14, 21; machte 96, 7; 70, 12; machten 62, 16; 52, 2. Further one example of i: michte 76, 27 and a few with u: muzen 62, 18; muze 84, 24; 98, 10; ze muhten 8, 17. — Nero has u in the present tense and i or u in the past: muwen 68, 12; muwe 44, 13; ze muwen 70, 8; 26, 6 etc.; muhten 8, 17; muhte 96, 7; ne muwe ze 98, 10; muzen 62, 18.

§ 14. Pronouns. Cleo. differs from Nero in having ha very frequently for heo. Nero has heo always. K. G. has the two forms (cp. Stodte § 39 b "Neben heō erscheint hā").

C. ha, N. heo 6, 25; 66, 1; 64, 27; 54, 19; 54, 25; 54, 21; 56, 1; 56, 4; 56, 3; 58, 9; 58, 8; 48, 3; 48, 16 etc.
