THE PROGRAM OF THE LOUISVILLE MEETING.

Special attention is called to the program of the Louisville meeting as it appears in this issue of The Journal. Everyone who is going to Louisville should take this program and study it carefully and distribute his time for attendance on the things in which he is most interested.

The general sessions are to be held in Keith's Theater, which is artificially cooled to sixty-five degrees and the air changed every ten minutes. This will insure comfort for the speakers as well as the audience. These meetings will start promptly at eight o'clock and close at ten. It has been determined that all of the meetings, whether sectional or general, are to be held absolutely on time and our members are urgently requested to govern themselves accordingly.

Something of a departure will be made this year in holding symposiums at the general evening sessions. The talent we have secured for these symposiums is most excellent and we feel that by this method we will be able to present the subjects in a concise and satisfactory manner to the hearers. There will be no discussion of these symposiums.

At this time, I wish to thank the chairmen and secretaries of the various sections for the prompt manner in which they have secured the program and the general excellence of the men who are to participate.

The clinic program has been divided into two parts: first, illustrated clinical lectures which will be held on the afternoon of the 26th. The audience will be seated in Keith's Theater and the lectures will be illustrated with stereopticon slides and moving picture films. I have already seen one of the films to be used and it is a real treat in itself. This is the first time clinical lectures have ever been given at our National Meeting and every one should avail himself of the opportunity of listening to this series and arrange his time so that nothing will interfere. The second clinic will be held on Friday morning and will be of the progressive character. The audiences will be seated in sections and the clinicians will progress, thus saving the time and confusion of having each audience move. This progressive clinic will be given in the balcony of the armory which is well lighted and will be specially arranged to suit the convenience of the clinicians and audience. The men who participate have been selected from the National District in which Louisville is located.

The program has been so arranged that the meetings of the House of Delegates and Board of Trustees will not interfere with the members of these two bodies attending the literary and clinical parts of the program.

From the present outlook, it seems that we will have the largest attendance at Louisville of any dental meeting ever held in the United States. Therefore, those expecting to attend should make their hotel reservations promptly.

THOMAS P. HINMAN, President.
