

(Effectively) Communicating your research online

The Foundling Museum

4 December 2019

Frances Madden, British Library

www.project-freya.eu | twitter: @freya_eu

Agenda

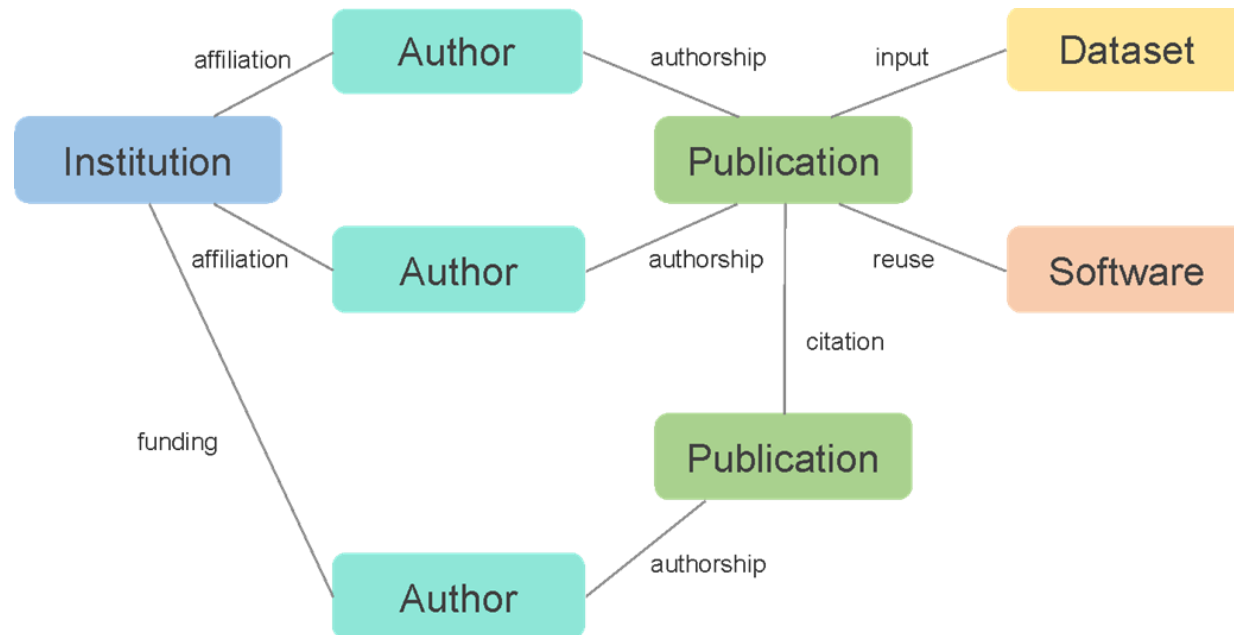

13:30	Introduction Frances Madden, British Library & Jonathan Blaney, Institute of Historical Research
13:50	Demonstrating the Benefits Prof Jane Winters, School of Advanced Study, University of London
14:10	How to use what's available, best practices Francesca Morselli, DANS
14:30	A Publisher's Perspective Kath Burton, Taylor & Francis
15:00	Breakout Session
15:30	Coffee Break
15:45	Breakout Session
16:30	Recap and summary
16:45	Close

FREYA in a nutshell

- FREYA = persistent identifiers
 - “... iteratively extend a robust environment for Persistent Identifiers (PIDs) into a core component of European and global research e-infrastructures”
- www.project-freya.eu
- British Library representing Humanities and social sciences
- 12 partner organisations

How does that relate to this event?

- PIDs = long-lasting reference to resource
- Vital part of scholarly communication online
- Citation of digital resources
- PIDs need to be used to reap benefits

Photo by Stephanie Ronquillo on Unsplash