Point of Departure - the Building Blocks

The Madera Portal – a Semantic Web

Locating data

Data can be retrieved by browsing the catalogs of different data archives, or perform searches across all the archives in the system.

Browsing metadata

Datasets in MADIERA will be documented according to the DDI standard. The metadata will be integrated with the data.

On-line statistical analysis

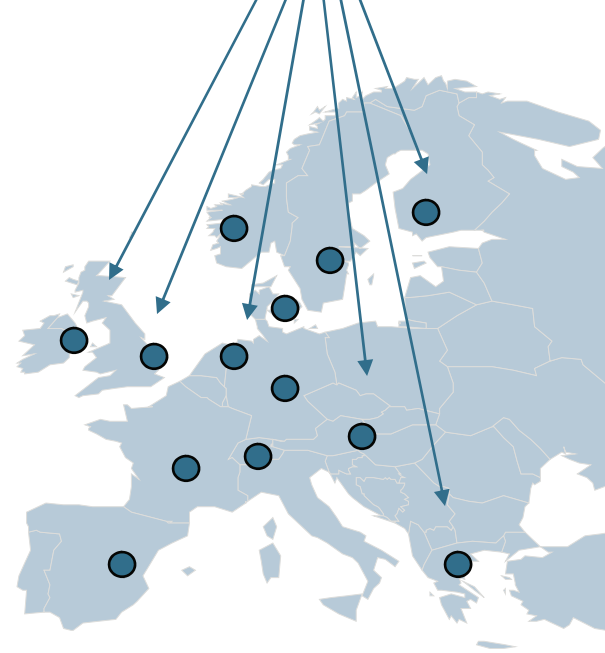

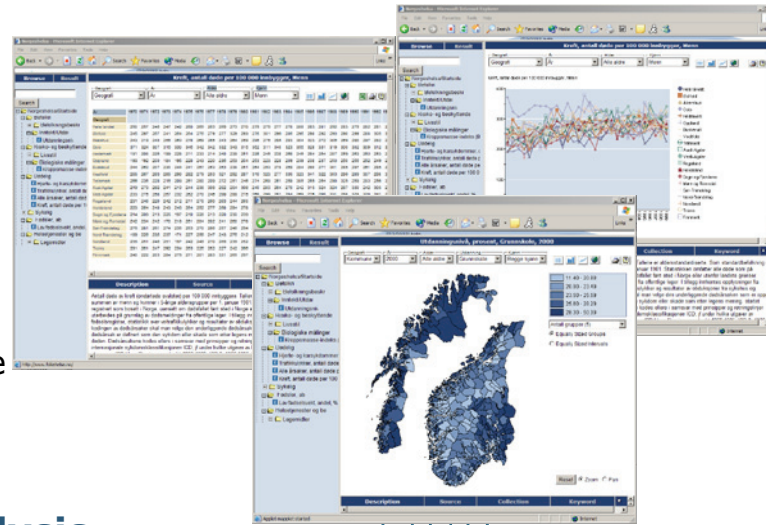

When a dataset or a variable is located on a MADIERA server, the user can instantly run simple statistical analyses like cross/tabulation, descriptive statistics and regression.

Downloading data

Data can be downloaded in any of a number of standard file formats

Visualisation

Several options for displaying statistics are available. This includes bar-charts, time series charts, and geographic maps

Multilingual support

Based on thesaurus technology, the user may search in any language, and be able to locate data stored in another language.

Comparative data

A built in logic for identifying comparative data – including variables or datasets stored on other servers throughout Europe.

A Geo-referencing system

Datasets will be stored with geographic coordinates for the geographic coverage of the dataset. A map interface will enable users to locate datasets.

Standardised identification

Work will be initiated to establish a standard for naming of social science data resources.

Knowledge base

User supplied comments, links to online publications etc.

*"Have some Madeira, m'Dear!
You really have nothing to fear.
I'm not trying to tempt you, that wouldn't be right;
You shouldn't drink spirits at this time of night.
Have some Madeira, m'Dear!
It's so very much nicer than beer.*
