

Together

By the GOGN picture book team

About the book

This picture book is for young children and adults alike. It can be read and explored together. The story is about three friends who went on an adventure down the river to build a playground. On their way they meet other animals who seem to put obstacles in their way. Read the story to discover what happens next.

The story was written and illustrated by a group of individuals from different parts of the world who worked together online over 6 months. They also had the help of many other educators from around the world who generously contributed their ideas and the characters of the story also originate from their contributions. All committed to creating a socially just world where education is available to all. Values such as sharing, collaborating and helping others are central to this mission of what is called open education and will help towards achieving the UN's Global Sustainable Development Goal 4, "Quality Education for All"
<https://sdgs.un.org/goals/goal4>

Some may recognise other stories and fairytales in this story. The illustrations are a remix of details of exhibits from the Rijksmuseum, Amsterdam, available under CC0 and new illustrations.

This project was supported by a Global OER Graduate Network (GOGN) Fellowship in 2020.

Together, by the GOGN picture book team is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution-NonCommercial 4.0 International License. This license enables you to copy, redistribute this book in any medium or format and remix, transform, and build upon for non-commercial purposes. All you need to do is add the attribution and link back to this original work.

The picture book team

Chrissi Nerantzi @chrissinerantzi, Principal Lecturer in Academic CPD, Manchester Metropolitan University, UK; open practitioner and researcher, picture book writer and crafter. She co-authored this story with Helene, Penny, Paola, Verena and Gino. She also co-illustrated the book with Ody.

Hélène Pulker @HelenePulker, Senior Lecturer in French, The Open University, UK, open practitioner, teacher trainer, language materials developer, researcher in open and distance education, Co-author of the picture book story.

Penny Bentley @penpln doctoral student at the University of Southern Queensland. She co-authored this story with the team.

Paola Corti @paola5373, Project Manager at METID, Politecnico di Milano (Italy) and OE Community Manager at SPARC Europe. She co-authored this story with the team.

Verena Roberts @verenanz, Adjunct Assistant Professor with the Werklund School of Education at the University of Calgary & Instructional Designer with Thompson Rivers University. She co-authored this book with the team.

Gino Fransman @ginofransman Academic Developer and #OpenEdInfluencers' Project Leader at Nelson Mandela University (South Africa), OE4BW project author/ mentor and advisory board member & Open Advocacy champion. He co-authored this story with the team.

Ody Frank @ody_frank, Sixth-Form animation and game design student. Ody co-illustrated and designed the book.

Bryan Mathers @bryanmmathers Founder, Visual Thinkery. Bryan provided mentorship to the illustrators.

One, two, three friends are on an adventure to build a playground.

What a BIG bucket you have!

All the better to collect water with!

MY water!
MY water!
Go away!
Go away!

One, two, three friends move on without delay.

What a BIG web you have!

All the easier to stop you with!
MY water! MY water!
Go away! Go away!

Ok, ok, ok!

One, two, three friends move on without delay.

Look!

What a BIG mouth you have!

All the better to eat you with!

MY water! MY water!
Go away! Go away!

Then suddenly...

... it gets darker and darker ...

and the waves get bigger and bigger. They splash and they crash.

Oh no!

Help! Help!

Help!

Help!

Hold on! I've got you!

Help! Help!

Watch!
Watch!
Big wave!
BIG wave!

I'll get it!

That was so close.

One, two, three, four, five, six friends build a playground.

Look!

Details of Rijksmuseum exhibits available under CC0
used in this book

The great wave at Kanagawa

Katsushika Hokusai

1829 - 1833

Tile panel from the ...

anonymous

1725

Pecking rope, in roll

anonymous

1590 - 1596

Adolf and Catharina Croeser, known ...

Jan Havicksz. Stone

1655

Box with year 1696

anonymous

A pitcher of beer 1800

anonymous

Seal bag Johan de Witt

anonymous

1600 - 1700

We would like to thank

- The Global OER Graduate Network <https://go-gn.net/> for funding this project through the Fellowship Scheme 2020 and particularly, Martin Weller, Beck Pitt, Rob Farrow and Paco Iniesto but also members and alumni of this network for their generous help and support during this project.
- OEGlobal <https://www.oeglobal.org/> for supporting this project through enabling related activities via the OEGlobal 2020 conference and embracing the idea, particularly Paul Stacey, Susan Huggins, Alan Levine, Igor Lesko and Kristina Ishmael
- Matteo Uggeri, a Gamification & Digital Learning Strategist, for spreading the seeds survey across the librarians community in Italy and for providing their ideas to the team for consideration.
- Cable Green, Director of Open Education at Creative Commons for his support via social media to spread the news about the project and encourage others to contribute to our story survey.
- Debbie Baff, Membership and Professional Membership Manager at ALT for their support sharing the survey via the ALT newsletter.
- We would also like to thank our very first critical readers of the half baked draft and especially Bea de los Arcos, Paul Stacey, Joe Raine, Margy MacMillan and Adam Frank for their valuable suggestions and critical comments, as well as Ada Czerwonogora who was the first to review what we felt was the complete story. Their feedback helped the team to strengthen the storyline.
- The OE4BW team and particularly Tanja Urbancic, Mitja Jermol and Anja Polajnar for helping us share the seed survey and receive responses from individuals from different parts of the world.
- Bryan Mathers who mentored Chrissi and Odysseas during the illustration process. Without his support and encouragement, this would not have been possible.
- Ody Frank who co-illustrated with Chrissi and designed the book. It was a wonderful opportunity to work together, mother and son.
- The Rijksmuseum in Amsterdam for making so many masterpieces available under a Creative Commons Zero (CC0) license that enabled us to incorporate details from some and weave them into our illustrations.
- Everybody who completed our story seed survey for their generosity and ideas that helped us write the story taking elements from many of the seeds shared. Individuals who contributed and provided their names are: Jess O'Reilly, Antony Cross, Mandeep Kaur, Roshini Pillay, Daksha Patel, Vanessa Tuckfield, Sheila MacNeill, Maha Bali, Stefano Menon, Mayank Trivedi, Matilda Smith, Asha Maudgil, Anuradha Gungadeen, Madhavi Dharankar, Subha Das Mollick, Bernard Lisewski, Lucy Norris, Daniele Bourcier, Vincent Kizza, Michael Dabrowski, Fabio Nascimbeni, Pratiksha Rajadhyaksha, Elisabeth Ball, Paul Stacey, Marjon Baas, Paco Iniesto, Alan Levine, Jenny Lawrence, Susan Spellman Cann, Salma Khriji, Lucy Tallents, Santanu Vasant, Marcela Morales, Namita Shriram Sahare, Ajita Deshmukh, Chris Rowell, Debbie Baff, Sawsan Khuri, Philippa McDonald, Loykie Lomine, Lina Iordanaki, Madhuwanthi Dissanayake, Isobel Gowers and Karl Donert.
- We would also like to thank Phaedra Maria Chatzidamianou, a 6-year-old girl, who was our youngest reader and her dad Gerasimos Chatzidamianos.

"That was a great story."

What did you like the most?

"When they became friends. They became friends because they saved each other. Go away go away... I would never do that to my friends, not even to people I don't know. We have to be friends with everyone, in case we need them and they need us."

Phaedra Maria Chatzidamianou, a 6-year-old girl

