Including New Members

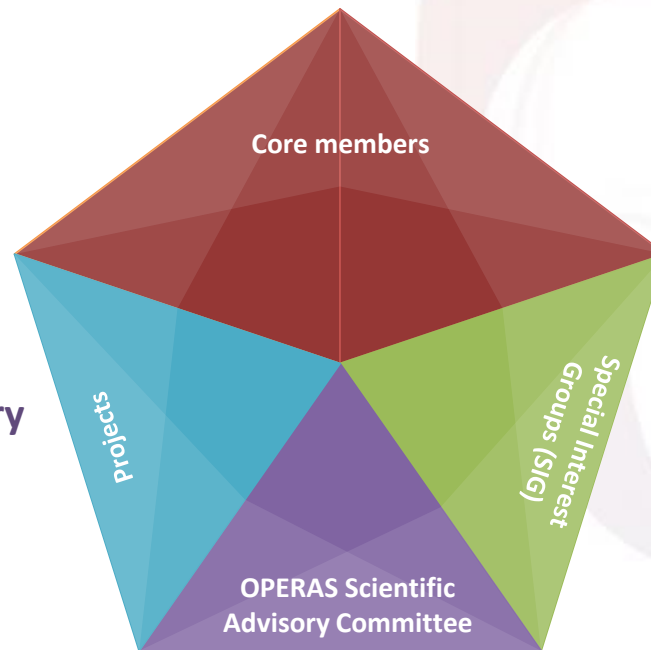

Inclusion of new member countries is a continuous ongoing process that benefits from the pivotal role of strategic contact points interacting with a broader community:

Projects

the development of new projects is a very efficient way of involving new partners who may become future members

OPERAS Scientific Advisory Committee (SAC)

experts involved are keynote agents to approach institutions and stakeholders

Core members

besides acting as national nodes, they play a pivotal role in aggregating linguistic and regional areas

Special Interest Groups (SIGs)

represent a group of expertise with a broad coverage of international representativeness

Special Interest Groups

OPERAS Special Interest Groups (SIGs)

- work collaboratively
- share information
- watch, and prepare projects on their topic
- each works under the responsibility of a contact point who is, in most cases, an OPERAS core member.

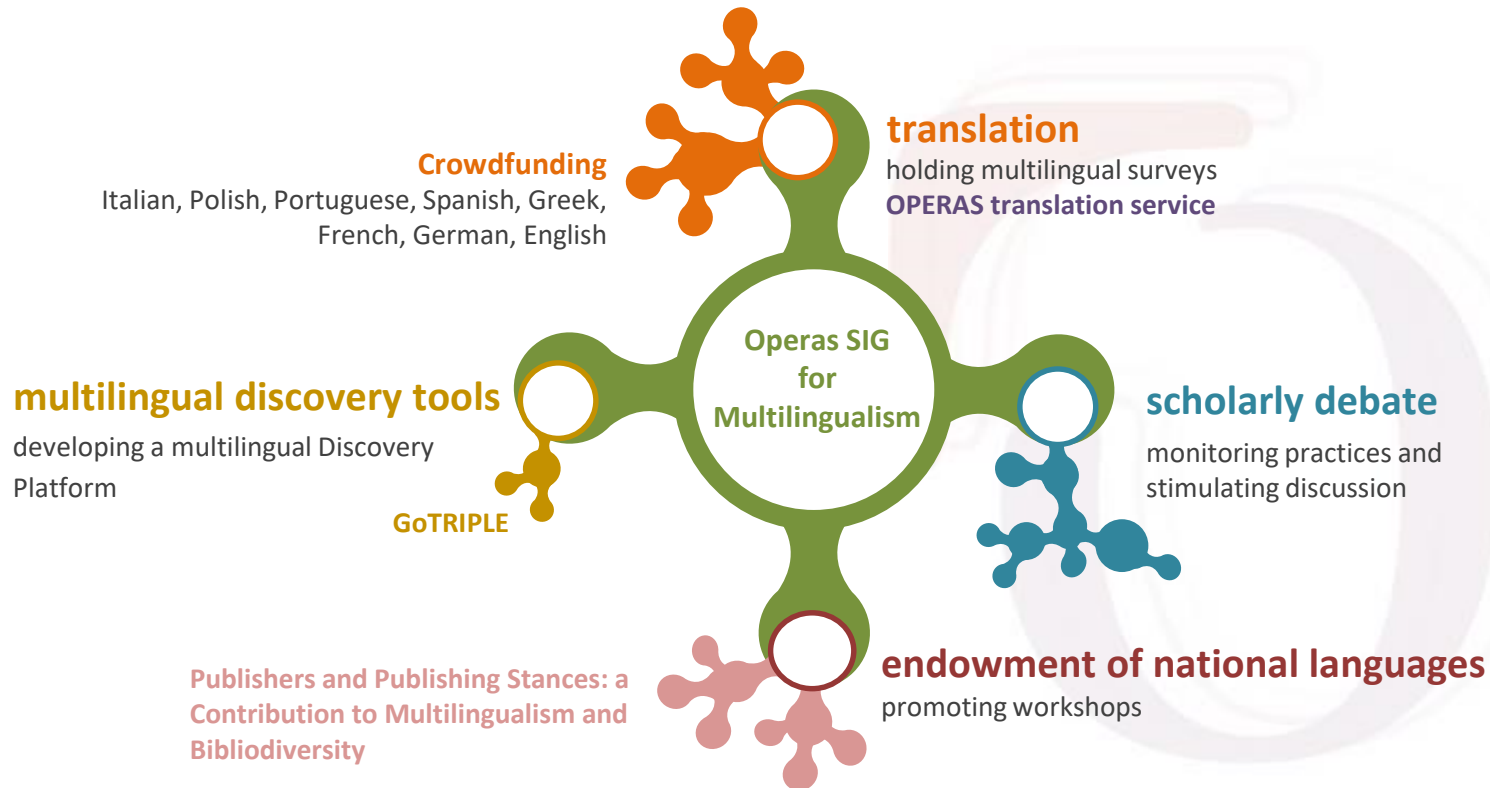

SIGs are open to all.

- compose the Assembly of the Commons (AC), in OPERAS' Governance
- serve as an entry door for new OPERAS members
- where new initiatives, new discussions take place and emerge

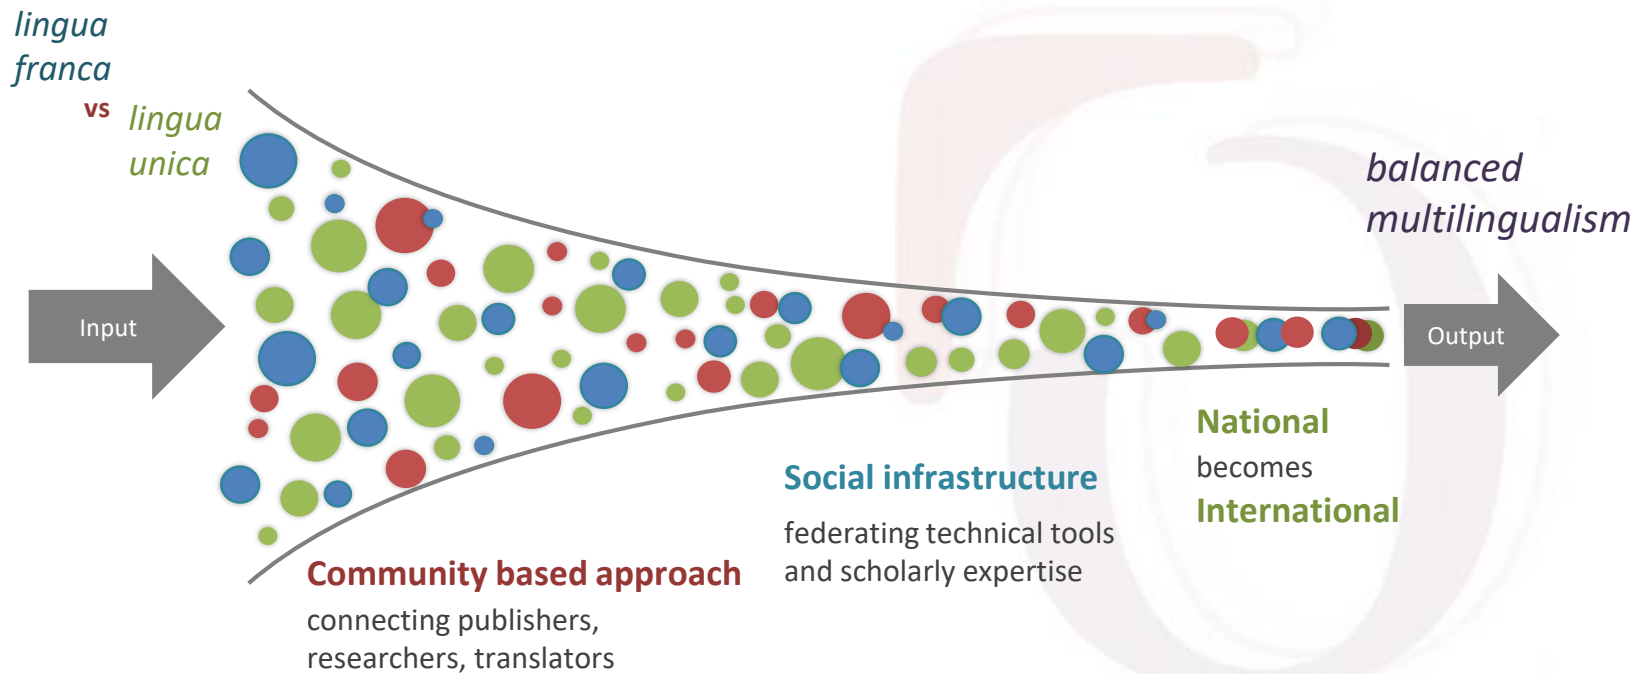

SIGs live from a great international working atmosphere and a diverse participation.
