

"When I think of Moodle, actually the first thing – I think of the typical view of the course. A typical website layout. At the top, I have the address bar. Then, somewhere on the website is the title of the course in the header. And then in the middle, I have my website content and on the left and right I again have two larger banners with several things on them. In the middle, I usually have a view in chronological order. So, it depends a bit, as this varies from course to course. It's a pity that there is no uniform setup. The chronologic view is sometimes in ascending or descending order. Sometimes not chronological. Here then there is such a list of headers which usually correlate with the lecture dates or the weeks of the course and below I have folders with any kind of materials, lecture slides for example. Here, I have the headers that correlate with the week and below that I have either hyperlinks or just ordinary links to folders that then contain further files. Sometimes, at the beginning of the page, the materials are directly linked to the file in the folder. But of this you cannot be sure. Therefore, you have to scroll up and down until you find something. I think one of the latest things they have added are these checkmarks there on the right, where you can kind of check and sometimes it is checked automatically somehow when you have downloaded the material. You don't know how this function works exactly. So, as I said, here I have a chronologic list of materials. At the beginning of the semester, all the weeks are listed already, but there is no material yet. I think this is rather helpful as you can clearly see that almost nothing is filled in yet and the material is still missing. So this is the main page and then I'll talk about these two side panels. A lot of stuff is in there. On the left, the things that refer to the user view, where sometimes you can navigate a little bit. On the left you may also have a framework of the whole course again, where you have kind of a quick access. Then there are evaluations, if you want to have the evaluation. I always found that important. Was hard to find, but this a good thing anyway. So then on the right side, if I remember correctly, I now have a calendar view where you can click. And then at the top, there is also this discussion forum where you can click, which is linked. Then, I think that within this discussion forum you can open relatively many threads."
