A Living Bibliography

About

What are the building blocks of who we are as a scholarly community? What's our story, our identity, our path? Or, perhaps, stories, identities, paths?

I believe that creating a living bibliography and archive of DHNB and its conferences can pinpoint who we are and where we are going as a community.

The bibliography holds more than 600 publications from and about five international conferences and seven years of local and regional activities in the Nordic and Baltic countries.

Resource

A public Zotero library with full-text archive gives you access to all DHNB related material - past and present. Here you find all conference abstracts, proceedings, and articles, but also a collection of digital publications about DHNB and its conferences.

These contributions are relevant and engaging precisely because they help piece the DHNB puzzle together and can be used as reference points in the effort to connect our work to the broader network of digital humanities research and practice.

Invitation

Join me now! Bring your building block to the story of DHNB by joining me in collaboratively creating what can become a trustworthy, sustainable community resource.

I encourage you to update the bibliography, categorize the DHNB publications and projects, supply with full-text versions, preserve relevant weblinks, or harvest social media for DHNB related hashtags and posts.
