Summary of the results of previous work

- There will be a great need for data management experts and professionals in the research sector in the coming years.

- There is not enough qualifying training available.

- New training is needed.

- Some of the reports outline the contents of the necessary training.

- The reports indicate the need for and importance of training, but do not indicate the steps that could be taken to start training.
How to get from pointing out the problems towards the solution?

Our first goal is modest

- 25 credit modular course
- can be combined/included to other academic degrees or taken as a continuing education course
- students can take as many modules they want, or all 25 credits

Steps needed

Start-up funding

Building awareness of the need of education

Outlining the main content of the training needed

Finding the organiser for the training

Finding the sustainable business model

Building trust and appreciation

Roadmap

Thank you!
