The concept of continuous education - science and technology development, the large-scale application of advanced production technologies in practice, it is not possible to provide a person with sufficient knowledge, behavioral methods and personal qualities for his entire life for independent creative activity in the present and future, rather, it implies that it will be improved throughout its life.

Continuing education is the basis of a competent competitive personnel training system, which includes all types of education, state educational standards, the structure of the personnel training system and its operating environment.

Continuing education is a priority area that ensures the socio-economic development of the Republic of Uzbekistan and meets the economic, social, scientific-technical and cultural needs of the individual, society, and the state.

Continuing education requires the creation of necessary conditions for the formation of a creative, socially active, spiritually rich person and the training of highly qualified competitive personnel.

The following operating principles of continuous education must be taken into account when providing library-information services:

- The priority of education - the first-class importance of its development, the prestige of knowledge, education and high intellect;

- Democratization of education - expansion of independence of educational institutions in choosing education and training methods, transition of education management to the state-society system;
- Humanization of education - the opening of human abilities and the satisfaction of his various needs for education, ensuring the priority of national and universal values, the harmony of human, society, environment interactions;
- Socialization of education - formation of high spirituality, culture and creative thinking in students, creation of aesthetic outlook;
- National orientation of education - integration of education with national history, national traditions and customs, preserving and enriching the culture of the peoples living in Uzbekistan, recognizing education as a very important factor of national development, respecting the history and culture of other peoples;
- The integral connection of education and upbringing, the orientation of this process to the formation of a person who has matured in all respects;
- Identifying talented young people, creating conditions for them to consistently receive fundamental and special education at the highest level of education.[7]

Today, continuing education is understood as a process that includes formal, additional, distance, independent education. The main task of the library-information service is to create conditions for everyone's use of available resources, data and information for all directions of the continuous education system. New information technologies used in the process of continuous education create wide opportunities for acquiring knowledge.

Studying the psychology of users in the process of library - information service, determining their interests and needs, creating the ability to use new technologies in searching for necessary information requires librarians to improve their knowledge, skills and qualifications. Especially today, it is important to regularly organize seminars and training programs, courses and programs related to the specifics of working with different groups of users. In particular, UNESCO's International Program "Information for All" aims to support education, help to continue acquiring knowledge and information throughout life.

Library-information service as a means of socialization of a person. Legal socialization. Based on the pedagogic task of the librarian, it is necessary to emphasize that, in addition to the fact that professional competence is of significant social importance, the impact on others through its activities and ultimately on the society reflects an important component of socialization.

Socialization represents the process of formation of a person under the influence of culture, communication, social influence as a result of interaction. The concept of socialization is the process of mastering exemplary behavior, psychological mechanisms, social norms and values necessary for the successful development of society [8]. In the course of socio-philosophical, psychological and pedagogical researches, the following situations characteristic of the socialization of a person have been identified:

With the help of social influences, a person acquires the heritage of scientific knowledge and personal culture, and on the basis of them, he matures mentally and acquires moral qualities - this situation is a priority aspect of the socialization of a person;

- Socialization of a person does not happen in the same way in different social systems and certain periods of society's development; each period is manifested in its own way in the socialization of a person;

- Socialization is not only a characteristic of youth, but covers all periods of a person's life. The task of librarians in the process of library-information service is to help the user to become a thinking person, a member of a mature civil society by studying, reading and analyzing legal printed sources and information, a universal human being who understands his place and behavior in society, the direction of his desires and goals. It consists in helping to become a person who can consciously direct his activities to the preservation and strengthening of values.

According to the Strategy of Reforms, the successful implementation of huge changes in all spheres of public life largely depends on the level of legal consciousness and legal culture of people. Accordingly, a targeted, wide-scale program of measures aimed at the radical improvement of legal education and enlightenment, promotion of legal knowledge in society was developed in our country. The implementation of this program ensures respect for the rights and freedoms of the population, and a further increase in citizens' sense of obedience to the law.

The formation of the civil society, the establishment and activation of its specific institutions directly depends on the activity of the individual and his legal socialization. Public control over government decisions and social activity of ordinary citizens play an important role in the legal socialization of a person.

Each of the citizens of the country must comply with the adopted laws, they must know their rights and obligations with the formation and education of legal culture. In the process of legal socialization of a person, legal knowledge, behavior, and legal relations develop. Legal aspects of personal socialization are among the problems that must be studied in the fields of pedagogy and jurisprudence. The legal mechanism of socialization is manifested in a person's legal consciousness, activity, objective and subjective social factors, the positive impact of the law on a person, and its result in active actions in everyday life. Therefore, the legal socialization of a person, education of a mature generation, legal norms, moral values form the basis of state policy in the formation of civil society.[9]

Legal socialization is the further improvement of social-political, cultural-educational spheres, ensuring social justice, the rule of law and organizing large-scale practical processes of building a civil society on this basis, serving to further strengthen the sustainable development of democratic principles, religious fanaticism, religious extremism, nationalism, it is the main tool for the implementation of tasks such as preventing terrorist attacks, managing society with the help of laws, and regulating social life and social relations.

Legal socialization right to education, duty, constitutional right, national equality, national pride, right to privacy, law, law, legal state, legal culture, legal norms, legal consciousness, their role in the development of the individual and the development of the society. and a system of views on deep understanding of the role. Today, there are the following factors contributing to legal socialization:

- Systematization of the legal policy of state bodies;
- Creation of legal conditions for socialization of a person, acceptance of legal socialization as a process, organization of public control over it, etc.

But it is necessary to point out the factors that have a negative impact on legal socialization, and they are as follows:

- Non-availability of a healthy environment in the family, school, educational institutions, residences, places of recreation and entertainment;
- Inflow of literature, films, video products, newspapers, magazines and other sources of information that have a negative impact on legal socialization, promoting violence, moral corruption, criminal lifestyle, living at the expense of crime;
- Situations such as the inappropriate interference of state bodies, officials in the activities of education subjects, citizens' self-management bodies have a negative impact on legal socialization.

It is also necessary to note that the interagency public places of residence of the educational subjects participating in the process of legal socialization are not clearly defined in the current laws, the personnel responsible for the organization of cooperation cannot meet the requirements of the time, the “people’s guards”, “border guards” working in cooperation with them lack of legal knowledge of public structures, lack of regular training sessions on legal socialization also have a negative effect. In the system of social institutions participating in the process of legal socialization, libraries have a special place in enriching and strengthening the legal knowledge acquired in the family, school, colleges, and higher educational institutions. Because the information service organized by the library in the so-called “person-to-person” direction of legal socialization of a person according to its work content is extremely important. In this place, the activities of libraries, which are carried out using various forms and methods, will be effective in the directions of formation and improvement of users' legal knowledge.
