Article 26: "Every individual and every organ of society ... shall strive by teaching and education to promote respect for these rights and freedoms."

Preamble to The Universal Declaration of Human Rights, 1948.

In 1993 the World Conference on Human Rights declared human rights education as "essential for the promotion and achievement of stable and harmonious relations among communities and for fostering mutual understanding, tolerance and peace".

In 1994 the General Assembly of the United Nations declared the UN Decade of Human Rights Education (1995-2004) and urged all UN member states to promote "training dissemination and information aimed at the building of a universal culture of human rights".
